Hampton by Hilton to Open Four Hotels in the Midwest Region by Early March

The new Midwest hotels – Hampton Inn & Suites Ashland, Hampton Inn and Suites Columbus Scioto Downs, Hampton Inn & Suites Alliance (all located in Ohio) and Hampton Inn & Suites West Lafayette in Indiana.

Hampton by Hilton's expansion within several business-centric cities comes at the right time to cater to rising "bleisure" travel, where more and more travelers look to blend their business travel with leisure and vacation activities. According to a recent survey, 2017 will see a further upswing in the blurred lines between leisure and business travel with 75 percent of business travelers intending to extend their business trips to further enjoy the destination. In fact, 30 percent of the travelers surveyed would accept a job with lower pay if it meant they could travel more for work.

"We encourage today's travelers to take advantage of business trips and travel commitments by venturing into the weekend to explore new destinations, passions and experiences along the way," said Phil Cordell, global head, focused service brands, Hilton. "Our newest openings will allow guests to experience the charm of the Midwest while enjoying Hampton by Hilton's welcoming and comfortable accommodations."

The new Hampton by Hilton offerings are designed to make travelers' lives easier while on the road, striking the right balance between work and play. The brand understands the importance of location when choosing a hotel, near major business centers and tourist attractions. All Hampton by Hilton properties offer the brand's signature free, hot breakfast; On the Run™ breakfast bags; free Wi-Fi in every room; and fitness centers.
